

DEPARTMENTS

80) Contributors

82) Letter from the Editor

89) Mail Call

91) Style Book

Green and white reemerge as the colors of summer; the new underground fashion bibles; Seen on the Street: the white belt; more

121) Manual

Upgrade your iPod's earphones; four approaches to heating up your honey; military vehicles for mere civilians; special: five smart sofas; more

147) The Verge

Why Tupac is overrated; Ashton's ex tells all; Joe Eszterhas gets smokin' mad; who said it: Kylie or Rummy?; more

160) The Critic

Why is the greatest story ever told always so lame on-screen? TOM CARSON explores the divine mystery of the misbegotten Jesus biopic

165) The GQ&A

JIM CAVIEZEL climbs down from the cross to talk about his transcendent role in Mel Gibson's The Passion of the Christ and how it feels to get zapped by lightning

INTERVIEW BY ANDREW CORSELLO

166) Style

From Wesley Clark's turtleneck to George Bush's flight suit, GQ's Style Guy, GLENN O'BRIEN, deconstructs the looks of the presidential candidates

174) Music

Pink, the ballsiest chick in rock, chats with MARK HEALY about Tommy Lee, kissing girls, and Prince Albert—the piercing and the guy in Monaco

181) Husbandry

Hanging out with former boy-band star and current Mr. Jessica Simpson, Nick Lachey—this generation's Ricky Ricardo

186) The Body

John Leguizamo gets loose with yoga and boxing

188) Profile

Gossip columnist, novelist, mother of three. At home with the successful daughter of the late, great Teflon Don as she struggles to keep it in the family BY GEORGE GURLEY

198) Essay

For RUSSELL SHORTO, the weekly game of darts offers a pointed antidote to rural family life

204) Classic

Twenty-two years ago, Richard Pryor released Live on the Sunset Strip and changed stand-up comedy forever

280) The GQ List

A sampling of terrorist chatter intercepted by the CIA

ASHLEY SCOTT STANDS TALL

Ashley Scott's Hot Stripper Action

I have this fantasy that you and your pal Jessica Alba sit around in Los Angeles and paint each other's toenails.

I haven't done her toes yet. We do put sunblock on each other because we're outdoors all day.

Do you have any addictions or anything?

Besides the heroin addiction? No, kidding—I only love fast food. The McRib is what I live for. It's pressed rib meat that looks like ribs; it looks like there are bones in it, but there aren't, and there's like those little chopped-up onions and three pickles exactly. I love it.

Speaking of pressed meat, you're working on a movie in which you play a stripper.

Yeah, and I love it! I've got a stripper pole coming in the mail. It's gonna be fun at parties. A couple of martinis and I'll be like, "Look what I learned!"

People will be like, "What happened to Ashley? She's a stripper now!"

Nothin' wrong with being a stripper.

I should say not! You recently got engaged.

What's his name?

Anthony. [He's from] New York. But he grew up in the country; he knows how to do man things.

What sort of man things?

He knows how to do every kind of man thing I need him to do.

Yow. You used to date Ashton Kutcher. How does it feel to have wanted to slap him years before the rest of the world?

That's awful! Does the world want to slap him? I think Ashton is honestly a really neat guy. He and I didn't work out, which is fine. I don't have anything bad to say about him.

And you're engaged! It worked out gorgeously!

Yeah, I don't give a shit!

—CHOIRE SICHA

