Here's something that stopped us in our tracks. The gothic-chic banner for "Underworld," Sony's September 19 vampire movie, looks a lot like ads for Birds of Prey, a WB drama from last season about Batman's daughter. Coincidence? "It's just a scene from the movie," says an exasperated "Underworld" rep. OK. Chill. We're not saying they copied Birds. (Our lawyers won't let us.) We're just saying these posters are mighty similar. That's all. —Rochell D. Thomas
